'I Love Jewish Girls': Historic Runway Show for New York Fashion Week Centers on Jewish Identity, Pride

A runway show that took place in New York City on Thursday night as part of New York Fashion Week was the first-of-its-kind to celebrate Jewish and Israeli designers from around the world who showcased a wide range of looks that expressed Jewish pride.

The event, titled "I Love Jewish Girls," was the first Jewish-themed runway show at New York Fashion Week, according to organizers, who also noted that the majority of the models were Jewish.

Artist and designer Elizabeth Sutton opened the runway show at Léman Ballroom wearing a stunning gown and matching headpiece by Israeli brand Shani, while other designers and brands featured on the runway included tailor Yosef Tiefenbrun, Aviad Arik Herman, Mikael Aghal, Yaron Minkowski, Shalosh, Miriya Love, Tomer Peretz, and Tribe True Tradition.

◦ WHY IT STAYS SMALL ◦

18 DESIGNERS PER EDITION. THAT'S THE CAP.

Eighteen is the number that gives every designer a real runway moment instead of two looks lost in a crowd. For the first LA edition, those eighteen slots are the founding lineup – once they're gone, they're gone.

- Presented by EPN Fashion Week – official LA Fashion Week platform, calendar and press access.
- Co-produced with The House of Faith & Fashion by Tobi Rubinstein.
- In collaboration with Miss Universe Israel – the titleholder walks and presents.
